Help us send you the most relevant information—save your address and sign up for hearing alerts

When politicians draw district lines for political gain, they slice and dice communities to limit their power. In fact, gerrymandering in Pennsylvania is so bad, you and your next-door neighbor might even be in different districts. If you share your full address, we can send you alerts and information customized to what's happening with your specific legislators.

If you're able to travel to Harrisburg occasionally—sometimes at short notice—make sure you also sign up for hearing alerts. We're aiming to gather a list of people who can show up in a Fair Districts PA t-shirt or pin, maintain eye contact with the chairman, and drop off a note in his office afterward, saying "I attended your hearing today. When will you give SB 22/ HB 722 a hearing?"
